Disney Mom Group Therapy

By Mo Gaffney and Kathy Najimy

DR. KINCAID: (Pg 67-72) Hello everybody, welcome to the Disney Mom's Support Group. Are we all here?

MONIQUE: Excuse me, am I in zee right room?

DR. KINCAID: Are you alive?

MONIQUE: Well, yes . . . I suppose . . .

DR. KINCAID: I mean in the movie, are you alive or do you die in the beginning or are you dead when it starts?

MONIQUE: Well, they never actually make mention of me.

DR. KINCAID: I bet you're already dead then. And your name is?

MONIQUE: Monique. Monique Andthebeast.

DR. KINCAID: Everybody, this is Monique Andthebeast.

ALL: WELCOME MONIQUE!

DR. KINCAID: And you're the mother of . . . ?

MONIQUE: Belle, well Beauty. Walt has some kind of Jones for renaming his girls "Beauty." A lot to live up to if you ask me . . .

DOLORES: Ya got that right, sister . . .

MONIQUE: It's like being named "Stacked." Sacre Blue – her name is Belle. And no, the only women in the film are a witch, a teapot and a hutch . . . (She starts to cry) He had her being raised by a pot and some old furniture. . .

INTRODUCTION

Let's face it . . . no one is more in need of a support group than the poor mothers of Disney characters. When the first question asked upon entering the room is "Are you alive?" you know you may be in for a bumpy ride. Let's listen in and find out a bit more about DMGT. For those of you opposed to acronyms, that's Disney Mom Group Therapy by Mo Gaffney and Kathy Najimy.

DOLORES: My name is Dolores . . . Dolores Deer, mother of Bambi . . . My son was raised by a rabbit, Monique!

MONIQUE: No, Dolores!

DOLORES: And a skunk for Christ's sake.

MONIQUE: Ooh, I just want to find that Waltsicle and thaw his butt out!

DR. KINCAID: No, now . . . you're among others like you . . . you're not alone . . . Most of the Disney girls were not raised by their mothers. Right, ladies? (group murmurs) We are delighted to have you in the group, Monique.

MONIQUE: (Sings) Bonjour, bonjour, it's nice to meet you.

DR. KINCAID: Why don't we all do introductions and then we can start? . . . Betty? Why don't you start? (Snickers)

BETTY: (Sings) I'm wishing, for the one I love, to find me . . .

DOLORES: Shut it, Bet-tee!!!

BETTY: Sorry. I'm Betty. Mother of Snow, Betty White. (Snickering) I know, I know, I've heard all the jokes. Dead at the beginning.

ALL: WELCOME, BETTY!

CORAL: Hi, I'm Coral Clownfish, mommy to Nemo. I horrifically die at the beginning as well. I brought some Shark sugar cookies, if anyone's interested.

ALL: WELCOME, CORAL!

DOLORES: Dolores Deer, mother of Bambi. Shot dead in the first then minutes. Yeah, yeah I know, "Welcome Dolores."

ETHEL: (Sings) Hello, Dolly!

DOLORES: All right, Ethel . . .

ETHEL: I'm Ethel, Ethel Mermaid, mother of Ariel. I'm dead from the beginning. And there's some fried calamari on the table as well.

ALL: WELCOME, ETHEL!

MRS. JUMBO: (Elephant trumpet) Jumbo, I am Mrs. Jumbo.

ALL: WELCOME, MRS. JUMBO!

DR. KINCAID: Okay, that's everybody, let's get started. Oh, and just so you all know, Habiba and Whaddad, Jasmine's and Aladdin's moms, couldn't be here because they are at a burqa burning. (Cheers) Okay then, why don't we start with a free form? And again, Betty White, could you start? Last week you were telling us how traumatic it was when they took Snow to the forest.

BETTY: Well, Doctor, for starters my daughter's name is Snow WHITE and they send her out to the forest with no sunscreen, and you're gonna think I am making this up, Doc. . . but Walt has her meet and move in with seven little men, clean and cook for them all, whistle the s out of herself, east a Jim Jones apple, fall asleep and then of course . . .

ALL: A handsome prince comes and kisses her and they live happily ever after! (Pause . . . then they all burst out laughing)

BETTY: A teenage girl and seven little men! You find that kind of crap on the Internet.

DR. KINCAID: Thank you, Betty, that's a good start. Coral Clownfish, why don't you go next?

ETHEL: Sing out, Coral!

CORAL: I just want to say, "NOT how it happened!" Would I show a hungry barracuda my nest? No!!! "Hey, big mean killer, come on in, eviscerate my children, then slice me open like a lute fish!" Oh, and just so you know that coffee is hot and I baked some fresh biscuits.

ETHEL: (Sings) There's no biscuits like fresh biscuits . . .

DR. KINCAID: Ethel Mermaid, it seems like you have something to say?

ETHEL: Okay, well, again, I'm Ethel Mermaid, mother of Ariel. First off, I would NEVER let my daughter give up her voice and half her body for some . . . for some guy she'd never even met. I mean, she saw him on a boat! He could have been Dahmer on a day cruise for the love of stage right. What's up with that?

DR. KINCAID: Okay, Ethel, we hear you. Dolores, you look raring to go.

DOLORES: Ya think? Well, first off I'm killed in front of my baby . . . yep . . . by some damn hunter. Now there's a challenging SPORT huh? There I am – an innocent, graceful doe drinking crystal water out of a sparkling stream and some A-hole sneaks up from behind, takes a bead on me and blam! Pops a cap! And can I just say "Great Prince of the Forest?" The guy lit out the second the kid was born! I mean you can't see that stuff on Rikki!

MONIQUE: Oh, Dolores, that is horrible . . .

DR. KINCAID: It's good to get it out. Oh, look who's here. Barbra – Welcome.

BARBRA: (Drunk) Sorry, (to Ethel) did I step on your tail? Sorry, sorry . . . It's a b to park a pumpkin in a compact space . . . Waddya bet my door's gonna get bruised . . . again! My name is Barbra and I'm an alcoholic . . .

ALL: WELCOME, BARBRA!

DOLORES: Wrong meeting Barb . . . This is the Disney thing . . .

BARBRA: Ooops. Sorry. My name is Barbra, my daughter is Cinder . . . I'm Barbra Rella and my daughter Cinder was allergic to manimals . . . he had her singing her guts out in a tiny room with birds and mice crawling all over her getting her dressed . . .

DOLORES: I hate mice!

BARBRA: Me too! And they went on and on about how much she missed her father . . . What about me? What about me?

CORAL: Can I get you some coffee?

BARBRA: Yes, just a drop of Kahlua . . . And how about all those jabs from Walt about me? She turns to s at twelve o'clock? Cinder runs down the 12 STEPS? Got it Walt! (To Coral) Thank you . . . and to top it all off, she runs off with that picky Prince with a shoe fetish . . . Only feet that can fit the shoe – Only feet that can fit the slipper!

DR. KINCAID: Thanks for that Barbra, that was very revealing. All right, who hasn't gone yet. .? Mrs. Jumbo? What's wrong, Aristocat got your tongue?

ETHEL: Sing it, Jumby!

MRS. JUMBO: Ohhh, Lordy . . . it was so long ago it's hard to remember . . .

ETHEL: But you're an elephant . . . you're supposed to –

MRS. JUMBO: No stereotypes please, Ethel! I was a proud young elephant . . . ripped from the jungle by THE MAN and brought shackled to the circus to "perform." It was humiliating. Then my boy was born . . . beautiful. Big trunk, big ears, big . . . he was beautiful. And just because he didn't look like some small-featured ferret they made fun of him. The last straw was when some little brat tugged on his ears and I lost my s! They labeled me "crazy" and sent me to the slammer. I didn't even make it through the first twenty pages, man.

ETHEL: Say it from your soul, sister!

MRS. JUMBO: That's my story

DR. KINCAID: Thank you, Mrs. Jumbo, that was truly moving. Now, I have to say I certainly sympathize with you women, but I must remind you that Disney wasn't the original author on most of your stories . . .

CRUELLA: Yes, but he picked them and he edited the wretched things!

DR. KINCAID: I'm sorry, you are?

CRUELLA: Cruella DeVille, Jumbo's lover. We met in the big house. (Mrs. Jumbo makes an elephant noise) Darlings.

ALL: WELCOME, CRUELLA!

DR. KINCAID: Okay, last thing on the agenda: Princes (Groans and ad-lib reactions to the following questions) How many daughters kissed by the handsome prince? How many taken away on a horse? How many never spoke to the guy before they married him? On, two . . . slow down, ladies . . . slow down. Oh gosh, time's up. Great session today, Ladies. And now it's time for . . . meds!

BARBRA: WOOHOO!

DR. KINCAID: And don't forget, a spoonful of sugar . . .

ALL: Helps the medicine go down! (Hums "Spoonful of Sugar")
