By Aaron Blabey

MR. WOLF: Pssst! Hey, you! Yeah, you. What's the problem? Oh, I see. Yeah, I get it . . . You're thinking, "Oooooh, it's a big, bad, scary wolf! I don't want to talk to him! Heas a MONSTER." Well, let me tell you something, buddy – Just because I've got big pointy teeth and razor-sharp claws . . . and I occasionally like to dress up like an old lady, that doesn't mean . . . I'm a bad guy.

POLICE OFFICER: SUSPECT RAP SHEET – Mr. Wolf aka Big Bad, Mr. Choppers, Grandma Criminal Activity: 1. Blowing down houses (the 3 pigs involved were too scared to press charges) 2. MR. WOLF: It's all lies, I tell you. But you don't believe me, do you? Because I'm the Bad Guy, right? Wrong. I'm a great guy. A nice guy, even. But I'm not just talking about me . . . I've got some buddies who have the same problem, so I've asked them to join us. They're great guys. But just like me, they are misunderstood.

MR. SHARK: I beg your pardon?

MR. WOLF: Aren't you tired of being the villain? Aren't you tired of the screams? Aren't you tired of the fear?

MR. PIRANHA: Not particularly.

MR. WOLF: Of course you are! And I have the solution! Pop Quiz . . . Let's say we find a cat stuck in a tree. What do we do?

MR. SHARK: Eat it?

MR. WOLF: No! We rescue it!

MR. PIRANHA: I came all the way from Bolivia for THIS?

MR. WOLF: (gathering his patience, he tries again) [Look] If we're going to be heroes we need to be able to smell trouble! (sniffs) In fact . . . I think I can smell trouble right now . . . (sniffs) Wow, it's really strong . . . (sniffs) Hang on. That's not . . . Aw, who farted?! (Mr. Snake reacts) (gathering his patience, he tries again) It's time for OPERATION DOG POUND! 200 puppies are locked up in the Maximum Security City Dog Pound. Their hopes and dreams are trapped behind walls of stone and bars of steel. But guess what? We're going to set them free . . . with this! (he holds out a dress on hanger)

MR. SNAKE: Are you going to dress up like an old lady AGAIN? It doesn't work, man. You ALWAYS get caught!

MR. WOLF: Who said anything about me? (looks meaningfully at Mr. Shark)

MR. SHARK: He's completely lost his mind

 AT THE POUND ********

MR. SHARK: I'm just a pretty young lady who has lost her dog. Please, oh please, can you help me sir?

 OUTSIDE ******

MR. WOLF: He's in! I knew this would work. Now, you know what to do. Once those cages are open, we won't have long, so don't mess it up. (he takes out a grappling hook with a length of rope)

MR. SNAKE: What's that thing for?

MR. WOLF: Climb aboard, fellas! (Mr. Snake and Mr. Pirahna climb onto the grappling hook) Hold on tight. And remember – once Mr. Shark gives me the signal, I'll get you inside and all you have to do is tell the dogs which way to run. Got it?

MR. PIRANHA: Yeah. But how do we get inside?

MR. WOLF: I'm just going to throw you through that tiny little window. (points) But don't worry! I have excellent aim and I'm 85% sure I'll get you in on my first throw!

MR. SNAKE: Hey man, can we talk about this for a second?

 AT THE POUND ******

SECURITY GUARD: I wouldn't normally open all these cages at once, but since you asked so nicely. . . Well, here's the last cage. Is THIS your dog?

MR. SHARK: No. Oh, woe is me! I shall never find my dog! (cries loudly)

 OUTSIDE ******

MR. WOLF: That's the signal! No time to talk! Hold on tight little buddies. (swings the grappling hook like a lasso) (Mr. Snake and Mr. Pirahna twirl around dizzily) It's time to go be a hero! (he throws the hook)

MR. PIRAHNA: (in mid-air) It we survive this, I'm going to eat that wolf.

MR. SNAKE: Not if I do it first! (Clank! the hook catches on the bars of the window and Mr. Snake and Mr. Pirahna leap to the floor)

MR. PIRAHNA: This is your lucky day, hermanos! We're getting you out of here!

MR. SNAKE: Everyone, follow us!

DOG 1: Is that what I think it is?

MR. SHARK: Well, they certainly didn't seem very grateful, did they?

MR. PIRAHNA: They called me a sardine!

MR. WOLF: You're missing the point, guys. We did it! We gave 200 dogs a whole new life. Doesn't that make you feel awesome?!

MR. SNAKE: I thought you were a sardine.

MR. WOLF: Today is the first day of our new lives. We are not Bad Guys anymore. We're Good Guys! And we are going to make the world a better place. For the first time in my life . . . the future smells sweet! (sniffs) Wait a second – That doesn't smell sweet . . . Piranha, did you fart?

MR. PIRAHNA: Just deal with it, chico. I get gassy when I'm upset. They called me a sardine.
