Character list:
Narrator
Ryan
Krishnov
Tyrone
Ashley
Dad

Narrator: Life sucks. To tell you the truth, the hardest part of life is growing up and trying to become successful. Especially for a young boy named Ryan.

Ryan: Hi, I'm Ryan

Narrator: Ryan is just a kid with too much brains.

Ryan: I had a 4.6 GPA

Narrator: In 2nd grade. Anyways, Ryan has too much brains and not enough friends.

Ryan: I have no friends! (Smiling at first. but then realizes the comment he made)

Narrator: More than anything, Ryan wants to fit in with the crowd. This is the story of Ryan, just a boy who learns the struggles of growing up the hard way.

Ryan: Its so hard.

Narrator: That's what she said. No, seriously though. Life is tough. Ryan just got a taste of this toughness when he tried to make friends.

(Change of scene)

Ryan: Hey want to be my friend?

Tyrone: No

Ryan: Awh come on Tyrone! We can be good friends!

Tyrone: I said no. Dang, what is with these new kids.

Ryan: Man I hate being the new kid. (To Ashley) Will you be my friend Ashley?

Ashley: No, sorry its against cheerleading rules for us cheerleaders to be friends with geeks. Especially geeks that are new kids.

Ryan: Awh man.

Narrator: Ryan, couldn't deny this because he was, in fact a new kid, and he was a geek.

Ryan: Well I am a geek and I am new to the school and I do not want to break any rules, therefore I cannot be friends with her. I wish I had a friend, just one friend.

Krishnov: Yello. My name is Krishnov. I am new kid also.

Ryan: Hi what do you what from me?

Krishnov: I would like companionship if you please.

Ryan: You mean a friendship?

Krishnov: Yes, an alliance.

Ryan: Okay! I made a friend! I'm so happy!

Narrator: A happy day it was for Ryan. He had made friends with the foreign exchange student, Krishnov. He only had one friend though, but Ryan and Krishnov were inseparable. They did everything together, because no one else would be their friend. However, they both tried their hardest to fit in and be accepted with the crowd.

(scene change)

Ryan: The crowd goes crazy as Ryan dribbles to take the shot. Ryan shoots! (Misses terribly)

Tyrone: Dang Ryan you suck at basketball.

Ryan: I know, don't rub it in Tyrone.

Tyrone: Try another sport man. Try ping pong. Geeks are always good at ping-pong. Yo go pick up that paddle I'll play you in ping pong.

Ryan: Umm okay, I'll try.

(Tyrone and Ryan have a ping pong game. Ryan is terrible, Tyrone is good.)

Tyrone: Man if you are bad at a game designed for nerds, you must suck at all sports.

Ryan: Awh man. If I can't play a sport I will never fit in.

Krishnov: In home country, Krishnov best on goose hunting team.

Ryan: Krishnov, that's not a sport in America.

Krishnov: Mouse chasing?

Ryan: No

Krishnov: Elephant racing?

Ryan: No.

Krishnov: Peacock fighting?

Ryan: Krishnov stop. We really need to find a way to fit in.

Krishnov: Maybe we try out for school play?

Ryan: Good idea Krishnov

(at the school play)

Ryan: Alright Krishnov, you go first. They want you to give a monologue from a play.

Krishnov: Okay. Hello. My name Krishnov. I am auditioning. Here is monologue: Where art thou Hamlet? To be or not to be lending me your ears. All the world's a Romeo. Et tu, Shakespeare? Good? Do I get part?

Ryan: Krishnov, you just mixed like six plays. You do not get the part.

Krishnov: You try giving mono to director.

Ryan: Mono? You mean monologue?

Krishnov: Yes this is what I mean, go ahead and try.

Ryan: No, I don't want to. This is useless. I give up! We'll never fit in.

Narrator: It was hard times for Ryan. He fell into depression. He only had one friend and he didn't fit in anywhere. The next step on the bumpy road for Ryan was learning about love. Ryan had never been in love. But for the first time ever, he thought he had fallen in love.

(change scene)

Ryan: (Looking at computer) Awh I love her. I just wish Ashley would notice me. You know what, I'm going to write her a long, meaningful love letter and put it in her locker!

(Scene change. Ryan puts letter in locker and walks away)

Ashley: (Pulls out letter and reads aloud) "Dear Ashley, I love you, from Ryan" Eww.

Ryan: (with flowers) Hey Ashley, I see you got my letter. I was wondering, since I'm no longer the "new kid" at school, will you go to prom with me?

Ashley: Sure

Ryan: Really?

Ashley: No, sorry. I'm too shallow. I would only go to prom with the captain of the football team. I mean I might consider you if you were like captain of the ping pong team or had friends or fit in somewhere. But your not captain of anything. Except maybe captain of loners.

Ryan: Awh man.

Krishnov: Its okay Ryan. Let me try asking girl to prom. (to teacher) Hello, will you make me happy, like when mouse sees cheese, and go to prom with me?

Ryan: Krishnov! That's the teacher! You can't ask her to prom!!

Krishnov: Oh. You are right. No one likes us, we do not it fit in with any group. We are geeks.

Ryan: I know.

Narrator: No one liked Ryan, or so it seemed. Ryan had forgotten about his family. Ryan was scared to talk to his parents, especially his father. Ryan was scared to talk his father because his father was the most successful doctor in the country. As a kid, Ryan's father knew exactly what he wanted to be when he grew up, and he ended up becoming just what he wanted to be – a doctor.

Ryan: (to himself) What to be when I'm older?! A doctor? Lawyer? Businessman?

Krishnov: How bout a Gigolo? Look Ryan, you are smartest boy in grade. You can be any profession you desire. Just choose one.

Ryan: I just don't know what to do with my future. My dad knew since he was a kid and I just don't know.

Krishnov: How bout Gigolo?

Ryan: Krishnov that is a terrible idea. I want to be successful, like my dad.

Krishnov: Why don't you ask your father for advice

Ryan: You know, as scared as I am to do this, I think I have no choice. I'm just to upset to care I'm going to ask my dad. (to Dad) Dad?

Dad: Who are you?

Ryan: Ryan… your son?

Dad: Just joking, you like never talk to me so I was surprised, what's up kid?

Ryan: I don't know what to do with my future.

Dad: What do you mean?

Ryan: I know I'm the smartest kid in the grade, but I have no friends, no girls like me, I don't fit in anywhere. Life just sucks. I feel like my future is going to be terrible, especially since I don't know what to do with my life.

Dad: Listen here son. You don't have to know what you want to be when you grow up already. You're just in high school.

Ryan: But Dad, you knew you wanted to be a doctor since you were a kid, now you're the most successful doctor in the country.

Dad: I was a dweeb. Don't follow my example. Listen to me. You can be anything you want and I will support you.

Ryan: But I want to live up to everyone's expectations and be as successful as you.

Dad: Listen, the only thing that defines success is how you feel in your heart after you do something. So whatever you do, even if you have no friends to support you, no girls like you, and you just don't fit in anywhere, just know that your dad will always be here for you. Just live your life and let the chips fall where they may.

Ryan: It was at that moment, when my dad said those words to me; I realized the most important in the world. I realized no matter what path I choose for life, I would always have the support of my dad… and I guess Krishnov and that everything would work out, no matter what I did.

Narrator: And as I got older, and older, and older and grew up. I realized that what my dad said, was right. And everything was okay. Yes, life sucks. But in my heart, it was successful. And the story of Ryan, ended happily.

Ryan becomes the narrator while saying this last line. The narrator throughout the story is a grown up version of Ryan, and this is revealed to the audience in this line.
