SpeechGeek

Season Eight: Winter 2011

SpeechGeek

ISSN 1545-9209 Price $25 US
http://www.speechgeek.com

Season Eight: Winter 2011

SpeechGeek
ISSN 1545-9209

Corey Alderdice
Editor and Publisher

Email:
thegeek@speechgeek.com

806 Brownstone Way
Bowling Green, KY 42104
(270) 705-3632

SpeechGeek is published four times per year: August, October, December, and April by Corey Alderdice, 806 Brownstone Way, Bowling Green, Kentucky 42104. Special issues are published from time to time.

http://www.speechgeek.com

The Geek and Mrs. Geek have had a busy two months since the release of our Season Eight: Fall 2010 issue.

You see, we welcomed the newest forensicator to our family: Elliott. He may only be eight weeks old, but it seems that he already has the booming voice and screaming of a future Dramatic Interp all-star.

Based on the way I smile when I see him, maybe he'd be better suited for H.I. rounds?

Maybe he won't even like forensics--though I highly doubt that.

While every season is a new adventure, this one has been even more so around the SpeechGeek HQ. Becuase of our new addition, this second issue wraps Season Eight.

Don't worry, though, as there's still a lot of great stuff in store for you before Nationals 2011 in Dallas!

Corey Alderdice
Publisher

Don't forget to become a fan of SpeechGeek on Facebook at: facebook.com/speechgeek.

SpeechGeek

In This Issue:
Season Eight: Winter 2011

Duo Interpretation (Male/Male)
Hypothetically Yours
by Katie Newport.....04

Duo Interpretation (Male/Female)
Chasing Snowflakes
by Katie Newport.....10

Humorous Interpretation
How to do Nothing Successfully by Clint Snyder.....18

Dramatic Interpretation
For My Baby
by Beatrice Pickens.....20

Humorous Interpretation
Reggie Wilson: Boy Detective
by Christopher Rife.....24

Hypothetically Yours

by Katie Newport

(Brian knocks on door, and Jeremy answers it.)

BRIAN. Hey, Jeremy.

JEREMY. Hey, Brian. Linda's not here right now... She should be back in maybe ten, fifteen minutes if you wanted to come back then.

BRIAN. (lets himself in) It's fine, I'll just wait here. I needed to talk to you, anyway.

JEREMY. (closes door after a beat) Sorry, but I'm actually kind of busy. I've got a lot of--

BRIAN. (not paying attention) Jeremy, can I ask you a question?

JEREMY. No.

BRIAN. Because I.... Wait. What?

JEREMY. No, you may not ask me a question.

BRIAN. But... Why not? I really need your help.

JEREMY. I'm sorry, but I cannot allow myself to "help" you again. You know what happened last time.

BRIAN. Oh, come on, Jeremy. We've known each other since high school, before I even started dating your sister. You can't let one little thing-

JEREMY. One little thing? That's a bit of an understatement, don't you think?

BRIAN. You're making this a bigger deal than it needs to be. I mean, that was so long ago that I can barely even remember what happened.

JEREMY. Oh? Let me take you back about two-and-a-half years ago. The location: this very living room.

BRIAN. Jeremy-

JEREMY. I was all dressed up, getting ready for a date. Then you suddenly burst through the door, begging for help and advice.

BRIAN. Are you done now?

JEREMY. (ignoring him) Jeremy! I need your help and advice! I want to take Linda to Hawaii for our five-year anniversary—did you know it's been five years since we started dating?--but I can't decide on the best mode of transportation and it is only four months away! Should I buy plane tickets or would a cruise be better?' Then we pro ceeded to go through what could hypothetically happen in each situation.

BRIAN. You can't possibly be blaming that on me.

JEREMY. Long story short, we ended up hypothetically stranded on a hypothetical island where, hypothetically, there was no food. This was, of course, after our hypothetical plane hypothetically crashed due to the hypothetical bird that flew into the hypothetical engine.

BRIAN. Jeremy! That was ages ago. And nothing that bad actually hap pened--

JEREMY. Brian, my date was ticked because I was late to pick her up.

Because of this, we didn't do anything… At all. Oh, and remember? You ate my tie.

BRIAN. I was starving… hypothetically…

JEREMY. That was my favorite lime green tie!

BRIAN. Well, if it makes you feel better, it didn't really taste like limes…

JEREMY. Goodbye, Brian. (goes to push him out the door)

BRIAN. (ignoring him) Listen, Jeremy. I need to know the best way to prop--

JEREMY. You're not going to leave unless I help, are you?

BRIAN. Nope. I need some hypothetical advice.

JEREMY. (With a sigh, he mimes checking his cell phone. He stares at it for a minute, then flops down onto the couch.) Fine. What is it?

BRIAN. When you love someone… I mean, when two people love each other very much, hypothetically, of course… Is it too old-fashioned for the man to get down on his knees when he… (gives Jeremy a knowing look) you know?

JEREMY. ……What?! Brian, that's my sister you're talking about! What do you think you're doing? I don't want to know about what you two do or don't do… old fashioned, or on your knees, or traditionally, or handcuffed, or like that video you rented, or-

BRIAN. Whoa, whoa, whoa. I thought we promised to never bring that up again--

JEREMY. You're the one who-

BRIAN. I was talking about PROPOSING. I want to PROPOSE to Linda!

JEREMY. Oh… I guess that's better.

BRIAN. But I can't decide what would be the most romantic way to do it. Since you are her brother and my friend, I wanted your opinion.

JEREMY. Do you have any ideas?

BRIAN. (proud of himself) I've narrowed it down to four: skydiving, canoe ing, a walk along the beach, or bowling.

JEREMY. … Bowling?

BRIAN. Bowling.

JEREMY. How is bowling romantic?

BRIAN. Are you kidding me? I can see it now… Linda and I, walking out after I've bowled a perfect 300, and I get down on my knee in the parking lot and ask her to marry me. She starts openly weeping and, through her tears, she says, "Yes! Yes! A thousand times yes!"

JEREMY. Want to know what would actually happen?

BRIAN. (coming out of his daydream) Huh?

JEREMY. You and Linda will walk out of the bowling alley. You're still bitter about missing your best score of 70 by one pin. Then you get down on one knee amidst a pile of used syringes… God only knows what diseases you'll contract… And then you grab her hand and ask her to marry you. The only problem is that your voice is drowned out by the bang of a gunshot and the nearing police sirens. Yeah. Real romantic.

BRIAN. So is that a no to bowling…?

JEREMY. (stares at him for a long moment and pushes him to door) Goodbye, Brian.

BRIAN. Okay, okay. Skydiving? How about skydiving?

JEREMY. I guess it can't be any worse than the bowling.

BRIAN. All right. Let's try role-playing. I'll be Linda, and you be me.

JEREMY. (patronizingly) No. I'll be Linda, you be you. Okay?

BRIAN. Oh… That makes more sense.

JEREMY. Okay, where do you want to start… Honey?

BRIAN. Let's start on the plane.

JEREMY. (begin speaking in a falsetto voice) Okay, Darling.

BRIAN. Are you ready to jump?

JEREMY. Buttercup! Do you WANT me to die? I don't have a parachute on yet!

BRIAN. (alarmed) Okay, so now that you do have a parachute, I'll jump first, and then-

JEREMY. Oh, of course. That's fine. You always have to put yourself first, don't you? What about me? What about MY needs?!

BRIAN. Do you want to go first?

JEREMY. Sure, Muffincakes.

BRIAN. Okay, so--

JEREMY. Let me get this straight, Cuddlecake. You want me to jump out of a moving plane so you can fly off into the sunset with some floozy you have stashed on board?!

BRIAN. What?!

JEREMY. WHERE IS SHE?

BRIAN. Jeremy, I--

JEREMY. JEREMY?! You're leaving me for a MAN?!

BRIAN. JEREMY!

JEREMY. Who is Jeremy?!?

BRIAN. Get a hold of yourself, man! (Brian slaps Jeremy)

JEREMY. (shaking it off) Oh, sorry.

BRIAN. We'll jump together.

(BOTH mime jumping out of plane.)

JEREMY. (High pitched scream, suddenly hugs Brian tightly)

BRIAN. Jere- I mean, Linda! What's wrong, Snugglebunny?

JEREMY. I'm afraid of heights, Choochielips!

BRIAN. …Linda's favorite hobby is mountain climbing, Jeremy. You are the one who has to get your next door neighbor to change your light bulbs because you're too afraid to get on a step ladder.

JEREMY. Oh, yeah.

BRIAN. So we jump together. (next lines said in unison, Brian mystified and Jeremy sarcastic) And then our chutes will deploy at the same time, and it will be magical…

JEREMY. And then our chutes will deploy at the same time, and then they will tangle together and we'll spiral down to our deaths like a morbid double helix.

BRIAN. Oh… That's a terrible idea! How about I jump first and I propose in the air?

JEREMY. Well… I'm not sure how committed I am to this relationship… I don't know if I want to be tied down, you know? And what if I say no?

BRIAN. Oh, God…

JEREMY. You'd have the entire way down to think about how completely stupid you are…

BRIAN. (devastated) Oh, God! What if she does say no?! What if she doesn't love me?

JEREMY. You'll never know unless you ask.

BRIAN. You're right. Okay, okay… Next hypothetical scenario: canoeing. I'll take her to el Lago de Cacahuate--

JEREMY. You're taking her to Peanut Lake?

BRIAN. It sounds more romantic when you say it in Spanish. Anyway, I'll take her there and we'll get in our canoe. We'll go out to the middle of the lake, go fishing, and have a picnic in our canoe. Then maybe we'll dance… in the canoe. Like in the movies, you know?

JEREMY. Okay, so you'll take her to Peanut Lake. (long pause) You do realize that JIF dumps chemical waste into the lake, right? So you're not even going to be able to row anywhere because of the sludge. Then, if you somehow did manage to get to the middle of the lake, all the fish are already dead. And you know that the fumes from that chemical waste can give small children asthma, so it's not exactly going to be easy to eat lunch. And nobody dances in canoes. What kind of movies are you watching? Besides, can either of you swim?

BRIAN. Umm, well--

JEREMY. No? That's what I thought.

BRIAN. (contemplative pause) So is that a 'maybe' to canoeing?

JEREMY. Brian…

BRIAN. All right, fine. So that just leaves… (pauses hesitantly, afraid of Jeremy's reaction) a walk along the beach?

JEREMY. Hmm… Well, I guess that could work.

BRIAN. But I-- wait. Really?

JEREMY. Yeah. It has more potential than any of the other options, anyways. Although…

BRIAN. (groans)

JEREMY. Well, come on. A walk along the beach is a little bit cliché, don't you think?

BRIAN. I guess… But it seemed so romantic that I-

JEREMY. (ignoring him again) Definitely too cliché. It needs to be more unique, more interesting. How about… horses!

BRIAN. Horses?

JEREMY. Yes! A horse-back ride along the beach! I can picture it now: a pair of white horses galloping majestically along the shoreline as the sun shimmers across the waves, and then you--

BRIAN. Hold on! Where in the world am I supposed to get horses?

JEREMY. That's not my problem. My job is to sit here and keep you distracted by crushing your fanciful dreams with my own fanciful imaginings.

BRIAN. … Wait, what?

JEREMY. What? Anyway. Horses. Go.

BRIAN. But I… Okay. (shifting into hypothetical situation mode) Linda my love, isn't the sunset magical?

JEREMY. (begins clapping to make the sound of horses galloping) What?

BRIAN. Um… I said, isn't the sunset magical? I… Listen, Linda. We've been dating for a long time and… I love you very much, and… I would like… What are you doing?

JEREMY. (stops clapping, frustrated) You have to be able to talk over the sounds of the horses. What happens if she can't hear your heartfelt profession of love? Then you'll be sitting there awkwardly waiting for a response while she wonders why you're so quiet. (Jeremy begins clapping once more, but Brian quickly grabs his hands to silence them.)

BRIAN. Enough! I slowed the horses to a stop, and now we're sitting next to each other, staring into each other's eyes.

JEREMY. (mimicking Linda's voice again) Oh, Brian…

BRIAN. Oh, Linda… I have loved you since the moment I first laid eyes upon you. Will you m--

JEREMY. (loud, obnoxious sneeze to cut him off)

BRIAN. Really?!

JEREMY. Sorry…

BRIAN. What was that?!

JEREMY. I'm allergic to horses.

BRIAN. (staring at him incredulously for a long moment) Jeremy. They are hypothetical horses. They. Aren't. REAL.

JEREMY. Oh, so you can suffer from hypothetical starvation but I'm not allowed to suffer from hypothetical allergies?

BRIAN. Jeremy! This is SERIOUS. Take some hypothetical Benadryl and then FOCUS.

JEREMY. (huffily) Fine.

BRIAN. Linda, you are the love of my life. I feel as if I've known you for forever, and I want to be with you for forever. Will you marry me?

JEREMY. No.

BRIAN. … No?

JEREMY. Nope.

BRIAN. Are you serious?

JEREMY. Yep.

BRIAN. But… But why? Why not? We've been dating for nearly eight years. I know you better than I know my family members, and we… I… I love you, Linda! So why won't you marry me?

JEREMY. (back to himself) Brian, have you ever considered that Linda doesn't love you back?

BRIAN. What?!

JEREMY. That maybe she's just dating you out of pity? She feels bad for you, so she can't break up with you?

BRIAN. But… I…

JEREMY. Or maybe she only wants you for your money? You're a pretty well off guy, and you buy her lots of pretty presents.

BRIAN. But I thought we--

JEREMY. Or maybe she has another boyfriend, and she is just using you?

BRIAN. (weakly) Well…

JEREMY. (brief pause) Or maybe she is sick and tired of waiting for seven and a half years for you to propose. Maybe she saw you coming into our house and texted me to keep you distracted for about ten minutes while she got ready for your date later. Maybe she plans on proposing to you, since you took too long. And maybe that box over there under the table is a present that she planned on giving you.

BRIAN. I… Wait… Huh? Is she really… What kind of present?

JEREMY. (standing up and walking towards the door) A parachute. (opens door) Bye, Brian.