THE GR8 TXT MSG WAR

A weeknight conversation between two high schoolers (Girl & Guy), conducted completely over text message. In some cases, the text message has been written out the way someone might describe seeing it; in other cases, the original text formatting and grammar has been left for interpretation. It is the author's intent that the performers liberally adapt the script in order to both accurately and humorously communicate the text exchange to the audience, in the context of their particular talents and the performance venue.
