For Colored Girls Who Have Considered Suicide . . .

By Ntozake Shange (En-toe-ZAK-kay SHONG-gay)

INTRODUCTION

Let me take you back to the late 60's/early 70s and just how difficult it was to be a black female at the time. Facing hardships and continuing to survive despite horrific experiences, being black as well as female placed these women in a double minority. In For Colored Girls Who Have Considered Suicide Ntozake Shange shares the good and bad personal experiences of women of color. First to share her perspective is the Lady in Blue . .

TRANSITION

And although every black women has her own unique experience, they also are united by their color and gender in a world that too often marginalized their existence. The Lady in Brown makes a final plea for black women in America. Listen carefully for humanity unites us all.

CHARACTER: Lady in Brown

dark phrases of womanhood of never havin been a girl half-notes scattered

FOR EDUCATIONAL USE ONLY

without rhythm/no tune distraught laughter fallin over a black girl's shoulder it's funny/it's hysterical the melody-less-ness of her dance don't tell nobody don't tell a soul she's dancin on beer cans & shingles this must be the spook house another song with no singers lyrics/no voices & interrupted solos unseen performances
are we ghouls?
children of horror?
the joke?
don't tell nobody don't tell a soul
are we animals? have we gone crazy? i can't hear anythin
but maddening screams
& the soft strains of death
& you promised me

4NG Fanatics

you promised me...
somebody/anybody
sing a black girl's song bring her out to know herself to know you but sing her rhythms carin/struggle/hard times sing her song of life she's been dead so long closed in silence so long she doesn't know the sound of her own voice her infinite beauty she's half-notes scattered
sing her sighs sing the song of her possibilities sing a righteous gospel let her be born

& handled warmly.
