I Believe in Anarchy from Emma Goldman: Love, Anarchy and Other Affairs

By Jessica Litwak

INTRODUCTION

At 10:00 on the night of September 9th, 1901, Emma Goldman was arrested for her alleged complicity in the plot to assassinate President McKinley. Emma took pride in being one of the few female anarchists of her time. The revolutionary fire that consumed Emma was fueled in part by anarchy, but also by her love affair with Alexander Berkamn. Her passions lie in her beliefs. She above all can declare without doubt "I Believe in Anarchy" by Jessica Litwak.

I believe in anarchy

free love speech.

I believe in America Courage.

People.

Pride.

4NG Fanatics

I believe there is great work to do.

Now.

However we can.

I believe that governments abuse their power.

Now and always.

I believe the future is in our hands.

I believe in dreamers.

Children. Streamers.

Confetti.

That dancing is important

I believe that if America has entered the war to make the world

safe for democracy,

she must first make democracy safe in America.

I believe in peace.

Beauty .

Duty.

I believe people must be free to express themselves differently in liberty.

I believe in passion. In art.

In anarchy.
That women must make choices about their lives as wives.
mothers lovers.
That America should not stick her nose into other people's business.
I believe in revolution coming next,
in sex Tolstoy
a brand new age.
Duse on stage.
I believe in Russia's cries,
in open eyes,
the President lies.

of which we've still not seen.
I believe in honesty.
Good food. Wine. Hard work. Happiness. Radiance.
The free child.
Oscar Wilde.
Sasha's smile.
Defiance. Pride.
I believe anarchism is a process-not a finality.
I believe in the spark a light in the dark.
History is eternal recurrence-and people are still tearing each other apart
after all these years.
We fools go on. . .
believing in life. Equality. Freedom.
The American people.
A wakening.
Liberation. Emancipation.

Ideals.
Anarchy
I believe in standing alone, grown woman. Making her own choices. Her face held high, not afraid to die.
I am proud of my beliefs and I believe...
no matter what anyone says about me
I believe in the masses in destroying the classes.
I believe in tenderness
In common sense-the declaration Of independence.
I believe in Max, Johann, Fedya. Alexander Berkman.
I believe in anarchy. . . and Nietzche says:
"That which is born out of love always takes place beyond good and evil."
Upheaval. Starting fresh.
Making a mess.

4NG Fanatics

I believe in moving.
Not losing.
Hope.
In coping with these hard but wonderful times.
Lines of people allover the world
Holding each other, helping each other.
Protesting war. Shouting for. . .
freedom, free love, speech. . .
I believe in anarchy. . .
"The philosophy of a new social order based on liberty unrestricted by man-made law."
I believe in fun.
Running, screaming, dancing, leaping, laughing, kissing, wishing.
Making it real.
I believe in love.
Again and again.
Women and men. Women and all the men in my life. . .
I believe in living for today.
Strong. Resilient. Gay.

Paving the road.
I believe our enemy is the dying past. . . and we are the glowing future...
I believe in we.
I believe in me.
You, her, him, them (as long as they're us) not to mention everybody who doesn't know
yet. . . I believe in charm.
Strong arms.
The great alarm . . .
here's to social harmony.
And all the men in my life.
I believe in going ahead.
I believe in America.
I disbelieve in authority. Invasion. Coercion and force.
Oppression, violence, marriage, divorce.
I believe in the absence of government. . .
in people running their own lives.
Children. Not deprived Of love.

4NG Fanatics

Free love. And the freedom of dreaming. . . and making dreams live.
The pleasure to give a warm hand to the next man. Fortified with courage and will.
Pulling each other up the hill.
I believe in anarchism.
The new world.
Women and men beginning again. I believe in patriotism of the soul.
Our role in the liberation of mankind.
I believe in the spiritual political economic revolution of life. Strife.
I believe in doing whatever it takes to make it happen.
