Creed of a Graffiti Writer

By Steven Bonafide Rojas

INTRODUCTION

In many people's minds, 'graffiti' tends to instantly translate into 'vandalism' or 'defamation'. In others' minds, graffiti is intertwined with the Hip-Hop culture and can be viewed only as a misunderstood art form. Whether a crime, or a medium of self-expression, graffiti is always provocative. Creed of a Graffiti Writer by Steven Bonafide Rojas.

We strike at night

The streets of New York

Is our canvas

We hid in the shadows

When the pig patrol strolls by

The moon give us our

Only source of light

We are the Addicts of Aerosol

The Krylon Can Clan

The Rusto Patrol

We are the German tip spraying

4NG Fanatics

Backpack wearing

Black book carrying

Magnum pilot tagging

The wack toy buffers

We are the Brigade of Bombers

Mounting on our midnight mission

Of colorized madness

The color blending

Spray paint and

Mind melding maniacs

We are the ghetto Picassos

The modern day Matisses

The artistic Shakespeares

That tear white walls in half

We are The Street Canvas Killers

With one quick splat of an ultra flat black

With silver outlines and

Yellow highlights perfected

During 3 a.m. night skylines

We are the crews that redecorate

Building walls with wildstyles

4N6 Fanatics

Burning people's imagination
With motions of the can
The walls wailed words of life
Through sight of krylon colors
On the streets of New York
We bomb city blocks
Rocking throw-ups on top
Of window sills
While standing on top of Garbage cans
We are the ones who set
Bronx-Brooklyn expeditions
In traditions of nomads
We go where no man's can
Has sprayed on walls before
We are the underground tunnel turnstile
Hoppers that bomb
Posters with one light being our guide
Our names are found on High rises and highways
Bridges and building roofs

4N6 Fanatics

We are the Bandits of Burners
Our plans are waterproof
Shockproof and foolproff
We are the Tye Dye Tone
Ting Maurauders that write
Graffiti Manifestos
On black wialls with
A silver Uni, SG-7 and
White Pentel markers
We mark the many lands
And train stations
Our tags rag black books and cardboard
Scratched on windows and train doors
Stickers slapped over any mother *****
You had beef with
Only in self-defense
We are the Graffiti Gurus
That spray silver spots on blackness
That become stars on the walls of galaxies
We gaze at our glossy words
And lose ourselves in arrows and 3-D shadows

4NG Fanatics

We are the 12oz Prophets
That write prophecies with
Our hieroglyphics that help
Humans understand us
It is simply the love
Of seeing our name on the wall
It is the symbolic value
Of feeling important in a world
We are lost in
It is the outlet that introduces
Art into our way of thinking
We wear baggy jeans
Hat to the back
And army fatigues
When we venture on our Trip of blending bombing wonderland
The street is our canvas
When art brushes and stencils
Don't matter only liquitechs and spray paint
The toxic aroma that entered our bloodstream
On nights when we froze our fingertips

4NG Fanatics

Writing upside down with the can
When finishing a powerhouse
Feel the wrath of Graff
When society calls us vandals and delinquents
That's why your child wants
To be just like us
We bomb your door to tell
You aour name
It's a shame you erased our
High rise artistic motion trains:
The Far Rockaway-Lefferta A
The outside D, B and Q in Brooklyn
The Coney Island F
The Canarsie-Broadway Junction L
The J, M and the Z
Over the Williamsburg Bridge
The N and the R in Astoria, Queens
The 1 and the 9 in Washington Heights
The 2 and the 5 in the Bronx
The New Lots 3
The Jerome 4

The Westchester 6

And the Flushing purple 7 train

Now we reign on your law

The Ink Scribe scribbles on your forehead

Then pronounces you hip hoply dead

The 4th Son of Hip Hop

Overshadowed by

Technic table microphones

And Puma gray suede complexion tone

There is no Hip Hop without

Graffiti only Rap

So we wrap our hands

Around cans become one

Our motions are studied

By plagiarist anthropologists

Making money off our art

The spirits on clean canvas can

Be hazardous to minds

When eyes can't understand

The buck wildstyle alphabet

Sunrises call for travels

4NG Fanatics

Homeward bound

We are the ones that make

The clikclakclikclakclikclakclikclak

Sound with the can on new land

When a tag could get our asses shot

We are the artistic poets

That perform magic with spray paint

And just cal ourselves writers

Graffiti Writers.
